Hi Isa,

In addition to this please request that for any failed deliveries, we want DHL to stop trying to deliver and instead reroute those to LW12 so we can keep them out of customers hands.

Thanks,
Jake

Hey Isa,

Thanks for the update. Can you please have your shipping partner request from DHL a list of tracking numbers that they have actually rerouted? We're currently seeing nearly all of these goods delivered, which makes us feel that DHL has completely ignored this request, despite the urgency of the matter.

Thanks,
Jake

Hi Isa,

I just spoke with DHL, and had them spot check a number of the shipments. None of those that were checked showed any evidence of the reroute request, which is very concerning. Please impress upon your DHL partner the urgency of the situation, and request an update ASAP. As the parcels were shipped from their account, we are unable to request action beyond tracking updates, so really need them to move on this.

Thanks,
Jake

Hey Isa,

Sending a followup email regarding our communication yesterday concerning the DHL shipments that need to be rerouted to our warehouse.

Thank you for speaking to me Wednesday and jumping on this request. I know it's a weird request to have ~1,800 individual shipments that need rerouting. Please correct me if I'm wrong. A letter was prepared by the DHL account holder, third-party partner of LW12, authorizing DHL to reroute those packages. The letter was prepared by that third-party on 5/11. During one of many calls to DHL they gave conflicting information on how to get this rerouted. It was later determined the account holder would need to email DHL directly to get these rerouted. Your third-party account holder confirmed the letter was sent the afternoon of 5/11 to DHL requesting a rerouting of these packages.

As of 5/12 3:15pm EST we are waiting on DHL to execute our request to reroute those shipments to LW12 for permanent hold.
